Global Energy Politics

Global Energy Politics uncovers the intricate ways in which our energy systems have shaped global outcomes in four key areas of world politics: security, the economy, the environment and global justice.

Thijs Van de Graaf is Associate Professor of International Politics at Ghent University, Belgium, and a non-resident Fellow with the Payne Institute, Colorado School of Mines, and with the Initiative for Sustainable Energy Policy at Johns Hopkins University. He was the lead drafter of the report A New World: The Geopolitics of the Energy Transformation, commissioned by the International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA).

Dr. Benjamin K. Sovacool is Professor of Energy Policy at the Science Policy Research Unit (SPRU) at the University of Sussex Business School in the United Kingdom. There he serves as Director of the Sussex Energy Group. He is also Professor of Business & Social Sciences and Director of the Centre for Energy Technologies at Aarhus University in Denmark.
